

New Orleans Gathering

Building NTC Together: Raising Our Aspirations

October 19 – 20, 2023

The National Talent Collaborative held its biannual meeting in October, in New Orleans. The CEO-led alliance of over 20 regional impact groups came together to share insights and engage in strategic planning of our coalition on how we can work together on talent and workforce development across our regions and across the country.

Strategic Planning and Next Steps:

What makes us unique: Our coalition has regional roots and a national presence. Collectively, we represent over 20 regions and bring the voice of business. Our unique regional connections to business, industry, academia, and the public sector allow us to have impact at scale.

Community of Practice: We facilitate the exchange of best practices, case studies, and resources among members and national partners. Our peer-to-peer learning is action-oriented and emphasizes models that can be scaled and adapted.

Collective Voice: Together, we represent a powerful collective voice of business that can drive national attention to critical issues such as the talent and opportunity gaps hindering economic growth and US competitiveness. Through this collective voice we can shed light on effective talent and economic opportunity models to unlock further resources. We will also work to advance our national policy recommendations and build a state-level policy exchange.

With support from the Charles Koch Foundation, the Kay Family Foundation, and the Walmart Foundation

<https://thentc.us>